Appendix F – BCLTA Correspondence 21 NOV 2023

Nov 21st, 2023

Greetings to all Library Board Chairs and members of the BCLTA listserv,

I am writing this to you as the new chair of the policy committee for the BC Library Trustees Association and with the support of the BCLTA Board of Trustees and the Executive Director.

Libraries are facing some very serious threats surrounding freedom of information involving the kinds of material found in the library and the kinds of presentations they allow on library property. Situations are arising where individuals and groups demand removal of materials that do not reflect their personal values. They may also seek membership on a library board to gain influence. For a library tasked with remaining impartial and representing a diverse range of interests and beliefs of the community, this becomes problematic. It can create discord within the board and with library staff. As our library AGMs approach, now is the time to be proactive and review our policies and if necessary put procedures in place to ensure the stability of our libraries and their boards.

So what can library directors and library boards do to ensure board membership that is considerate and respectful of the range of community values and our democratic society? The most important thing is to be proactive. Anticipate potential difficulties and create procedures and policies that will ameliorate these situations. You can do this by taking the following steps:

1. Create a robust recruitment committee and actively recruit candidates who have no hidden agenda. Select candidates who bring solid qualifications to the board, who are more than just somebody to fill a vacant seat (i.e. the lawyer who understands policy and procedure, who can review your policy and bylaws and can advise if problems arise; the accountant who can help advise on annual budgeting; the fund raising expert).
2. Use an application form and vet potential candidates. Have a full interview procedure which may reveal opinions and values of concern and personal agendas. Request references.
3. Require that any candidate present themselves to the board meeting prior to the AGM perhaps for a Q & A but at the very least to introduce themselves and have the board endorse candidates based on the recruitment committee recommendations.
4. Change your bylaws to prevent candidates from being nominated off the floor at your AGM. This prevents a special interest group from stacking your AGM with supporters who want to vote in a slate with an agenda.

5. Change your bylaws to create staggered terms. Elect half the board in one year and half the next so that there cannot be a wholesale change of the board. Ensure you have a full board so that it doesn't become unbalanced in perspectives. Diversity in views leads to good discussion and potentially better decisions; however, respect and consideration of a range of possibilities is important.
6. Create a governance committee to continually review and update your bylaws in keeping with the requirements of the Library Act so that you stay on top of potential issues and address them before they become a problem.

Many of you will have already prepared for the kinds of threats libraries are facing by using one or all of the above procedures. However, all too often people say, “Well, I never thought I would see that happen here!” Unfortunately, we get complacent and don't react until our world is directly threatened . So, I encourage you all to look at your policies, procedures and bylaws now to ensure that you are equipped to handle difficult situations. Take advantage of the information on the BCLTA website at <https://www.bclta.ca/bclta-governance-workbook-board-and-trustee-development/>. In addition I am more than willing to help any of you out if you have any concerns or questions and I encourage you to get involved with the BCLTA to help with our shared purpose of maintaining and enhancing libraries which are integral to the democratic social infrastructure. I can be reached at robbsennie52@gmail.com.

Yours truly,

Rob Bennie BCLTA Board Trustee and Gibsons & District Public Library Chair
